The New Bureau Bill.

The new revenue bill changes the Internal Revenue Bureau into a Department, the chief officer of which is to be a Commissioner, whose annual salary is to be $6000; Assistant Commissioner, $4000; six Deputy Commissioners, with a salary of $3000 each, one Solicitor at a salary of $4000, together with a requisite number of clerks and messengers. A new class of officers is to be created, same as recommended by special Commissioner Wells, two years ago, called supervisors of the revenue, one of whom is to be assigned to each judicial district of the country. It is made their business to superintend the general collection of revenue and to report from time to time the manner in which business is transacted by assessors and collectors. They are also invested with power to rotate or change from place to place, all sub-officers—such as inspectors, gaugers and storekeepers, whose duties are prescribed and salaries fixed.

The bill prescribes the duties of assessors, assistant assessors, and the method in which taxes shall be assessed, and also those of collectors and deputy collectors and the method of collecting taxes. It provides for proceedings where seizures and distraint becomes necessary in order to insure the collection of the tax, together with the regulations for the conducting of suits, remission of tax and compromising fines and penalties.

The bill provides for attention to frauds and penalties and drawbacks, and the fourth division of the act embraces several comprehensive and complete sections with regard to the execution and filing of bonds. The fifth division of the bill contains several miscellaneous sections, bringing together in a complete manner and under separate heads all the provisions of the law relating to each separate department. In these respects it is claimed the bill has great superiority over existing statutes. A superiority, in fact, characterized the entire bill.

The next department embraces special taxes, formerly known as licenses. The number of these greatly increased, probably doubled. The rates are very generally advanced, although some occupations formerly taxed are now exempted. In the section on manufactures $2 per $1000, or one-fifth of one per cent retained. The next department of the bill concerns stamps, which has not been greatly amended.

The succeeding department embraces a variety of special taxes, including those on banks and bankers, passports and taxes on articles mentioned in what is known as schedule A, which includes carriages, watches and pianos. The old division of gross receipts is abandoned, and in place thereof each source of taxation stands by itself. The provisions relative to distilled spirits cover fifty pages.

A NOBLE ACT.—The Saratoga Sentinel reports the following case of devotion to an invalid wife by a husband.

"On the 31st day of March last, Robert Spier, then residing at Watertown, in this State, having an invalid wife, who has lost the use of her lower limbs, on being told that the mineral waters here might prove a cure, started from Watertown with a wheelbarrow, containing his wife and infant child of twenty months, together with a few articles, making the load he had to wheel some two hundred and eighty pounds. He was also accompanied by his other child,—a boy of some six years of age, who walked the entire way here from Watertown, while his father wheeled in the barrow the poor decrepit wife, baby, and the few quilts, &c., he had. During the snow storm in April, while in Lewis county, the family were compelled to lay up in a shanty for eight days; food being furnished them by some kind neighbors. On Saturday last, the group arrived two miles below this village, where they were encamped in the woods, at the last accounts. An effort, however is being made to provide more comfortable quarters for them in this village, so that the waters of our pool of Bethesda may, if possible, prove of benefit to the sickly wife. We learn that Mr. Spier is about forty years of age, his wife being a little his junior.

MILLINERY GOODS! SOMETHING

MISS F. C. APPLETON

Desires to inform her patrons and ladies of St. Albans and vicinity that she has recently added to her stock of

New and Seasonable Goods

In her line, and grateful for past favors, would respectfully solicit a continuance of the same, and hopes by a careful attention to the various styles of both

COLUMBUS.

THIS celebrated trotting stallion will serve mares the present season at Gilmore & Branier's Stables, ST. ALBANS, VT.

Columbus is so well known in Franklin County that it is hardly necessary to say a word of his value to farmers who wish to raise valuable Colts. He stands very high in New York. He was acknowledged to be the best Stallion, and took the first premium as such, at the Westchester County Fair. At the request of many of the most prominent men of Franklin County, Vt., his present owner consented to let him stand the present season for Mares. In order to give entire satisfaction to all of the many friends of the horse, the price has been fixed low. The average height of his colts is from 15 to 16 hands high, and weight from 1 to 1,200 lbs. 215-4f ELIAKIM F. FULLER.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT IN DENTISTRY. The attention of the public is called to a great discovery in Dentistry.

THE GREATEST ADVANCE STEP EVER MADE IN THE ART.

The main difficulty in wearing artificial teeth is, they do not hold in their place firmly enough, and add to this the annoyance of food getting under the plate while eating. I have discovered a method of so constructing the plate on which the teeth are set that they will not start or drop while eating or speaking, neither will any particles of food get under the plate, no matter what the condition of the mouth is, which is not true of any method hitherto used.

I have secured Letters Patent for the United States, England and France.

The improvement is not in material, but in the construction, which secures the atmospheric pressure on the entire plate.

I have sold the exclusive of said improvement to Dr. L. Gilman, to wit, the Counties of Franklin, Washington, Chittenden, Lamoille and Grand Isle. Those wishing to avail themselves of such improvement, will call on
